Cooler weather makes horses frisky, and at the 2009 APHA Fall Show in Fort Worth, Texas, November 5–14, the speed horses were feeling their oats. With 113 entries blasting through the John Justin Arena, competitors enjoyed a good time along with a respite from the Texas heat.

“Every year I get a little more comfortable with showing here,” said Miller. “I thought everyone was really friendly, and the people who checked us in were good.”

Riding ex-racehorse Dandy Moon Jet, a 2001 brown tobiano gelding owned by Marvin and Renetta Wilson of Celina, Texas, Miller turned in a :15.804 time to land the reserve champion title in Senior Barrel Racing, a deep class with 25 entries.

“I was very happy for the customer,” continued Miller. “It’s always good when you do well for them. After tipping a barrel last year, I put a lot of pressure on myself, and I was glad the pattern was clean. I’m glad he fired off. I had a bobble at the third barrel, but that’s just the way it goes. I was pleased.”

The Capell family of Midlothian, Texas, has shown in the Novice Amateur speed classes for several years at the World Show.

“We really enjoyed [the show],” said Beth Capell. “We had a good time and spent the day there before and all day the day of our classes.”

Capell had her big break this year with Gunsmoke Pass, the 2002 sorrel tovero mare she shares with her husband, Bill. Beth and the mare smoked the Novice Amateur Pole Bending class, winning easily after landing a time of :23.122—more than three-and-a-half seconds ahead of the second-place pair. Unsure of her final placing until she headed into the arena for her award, Capell says she was overcome with emotion.

“When she finished her run, I didn’t know if we had won or not, but I knew that she’d run the best run she ever had,” explained Beth. “I was really excited about it, and I had tears running down my eyes. We ended up finding out our placing when we went into the arena. It was awesome.”

The Capells plan to bring their family to the show again next year, showing three generations of their horses—mother, daughter and granddaughter.

“It all runs in the family with the horses, and it runs in the family with our family,” said Beth.

After watching his partner Matt Stark compete at the World Show for a few years, Trent James of Adrian, Missouri, made his debut in Novice Amateur Barrel Racing aboard LRR Jetty Bars.

“This was the first year I have competed,” said James, “and the show seemed very well organized and everybody was very friendly.”

Nicknamed “Hank,” the 1998 red roan overo gelding suffered an injury the day after his entry fee was mailed, and James worried he would be unable to show.

“Up until the day before we left, we didn’t know if he was going to get to compete or not,” said James. “I hadn’t been able to ride him for a month before the show.”

The rest seemed to do Hank good, as he raced through the cloverleaf pattern with a time of :16.261, good enough to net the pair the championship title. James was surprised at his win.

“It felt unbelievable,” said James. “I really just wanted the experience of going down there and competing. I was shocked. I was blown away.”

Leaving the show with a positive experience, James plans to continue his World Show career in the future.

“The show was a lot of fun,” said James. “I enjoyed it—the whole competition. Everything was just amazing. We’ll definitely be back next year.” PHR
